RANGED
PUBLIC VERSION

These Petitions are presented on behalf of the American Kitchen Cabinet Alliance (the "AKCA" or "Alliance"). The Alliance is comprised of ACProducts, Inc., American Woodmark Corporation, Bellmont Cabinet Co., Bertch Cabinet Manufacturing, The Corsi Group, Crystal Cabinet Works, Inc., Dura Supreme Cabinetry, Jim Bishop Cabinets, Inc., Kitchen Kompact, Inc., Koch & Co., Inc., Kountry Wood Products, LLC, Lanz Cabinets Incorporated, Leedo Cabinetry, Marsh Furniture Company, Master WoodCraft Cabinetry LLC, MasterBrand Cabinets, Inc., Nation's Cabinetry, Showplace Wood Products, Inc., Smart Cabinetry, Tru Cabinetry, Wellborn Cabinet, Inc., Wellborn Forest Products, Inc., Woodland Cabinetry, Inc., Woodmont Cabinetry, W. W. Wood Products, Inc., [COMPANY NAME] and [COMPANY NAME].[1] (collectively, "Petitioners").

Petitioners allege that certain wooden cabinets and vanities imported from China are being or are likely to be sold at less than normal value (hereinafter "LTNV") within the meaning of section 731 of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended, 19 U.S.C. § 1671 and § 1673 (hereinafter "the Act"). Petitioners further allege that wooden cabinets and vanities imported from China are subsidized within the meaning of section 701 of the Act. These unfairly traded imports have materially injured the United States domestic industry producing wooden cabinets and vanities and threaten to cause further material injury if remedial action is not taken. These Petitions contain information reasonably available to Petitioners in support of these allegations.

Separate volumes regarding the allegations of dumping by subject producers, as well as countervailable subsidies provided to subject producers, are being filed simultaneously at the U.S. Department of Commerce (the "Department") and the U.S. International Trade Commission (the "Commission"). Petitioners request that antidumping and countervailing duties be imposed to offset the dumping and subsidy margins detailed in the antidumping and countervailing duty volumes.

I. COMMON ISSUES

This section contains information required in antidumping and countervailing duty petitions by the regulations of the Department[2] and the Commission.[3]

A. The Name and Address of the Petitioners (19 C.F.R. § 351.202(b)(1))

The Petitioner is the American Kitchen Cabinet Alliance. Petitioner is a domestic interested party within the meaning of 19 U.S.C. 1677(9) and 19 C.F.R. § 351.102(b). The names, addresses, and telephone numbers of the companies comprising the Alliance are provided in Exhibit I-1.

B. Identity of the Industry on Whose Behalf the Petition Is Filed (19 C.F.R. § 207.11(b)(2)(ii); 19 C.F.R. § 351.202(b)(2))

These Petitions are filed on behalf of the United States industry that produces wooden cabinets and vanities. In addition to information relating to the Petitioners, the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of other domestic producers in the United States are provided in Exhibit I-2. According to the best information available to Petitioners, Exhibits I-1 and I-2 identify all known producers of the merchandise under consideration in the United States.[4]

C. Information Relating to the Degree of Industry Support for the Petition (19 C.F.R. § 351.202(b)(3))

Under the relevant statutory provisions, a petition is filed by or on behalf of the domestic industry if: (1) domestic producers who support the petition account for at least 25 percent of the total production of the domestic like product, and (2) domestic producers who support the petition account for more than 50 percent of the production of the domestic like product produced by that portion of the industry expressing support for or opposition to the petition.[5] Petitioners meet both of these requirements.

Petitioners' estimate of total U.S. production of wooden cabinets and vanities for 2017 is in the table below. Because there is no independent, external measure available to Petitioners for the quantity of wooden cabinets and vanities produced by the entire domestic industry, Petitioners use shipments as a proxy for production.[6] Petitioners use a carefully calculated and detailed estimate developed by [COMPANY NAME NARRATIVE], as explained in the declaration in Exhibit I-4. The [ ] estimate represents the best information available to Petitioners and is a reasonable proxy for total domestic production.

Petitioners have calculated their share of domestic production using their [ ].[7] As [NARRATIVE],[8] the latest information available from this source is for full year 2017.

As Table 1 shows, Petitioners' estimated share of U.S. production of wooden cabinets and vanities exceeds the statutory standard.

In addition, two other large domestic manufacturers of wooden cabinets and vanities – [COMPANY NAMES] – have taken a neutral position on these investigations.[9] These two companies account for more than [ ]. In addition, [COMPANY NAME $92 MILLION],[10] is not a Petitioner but supports these investigations.[11]

Thus, Petitioners have sufficient industry support to file these petitions on behalf of the domestic industry.

D. Previous Requests for Import Relief for the Merchandise (19 C.F.R. § 351.202(b)(4))

Petitioners have not previously filed for antidumping or countervailing duty relief on imports of wooden cabinets and vanities and are not aware of any outstanding antidumping or countervailing duty orders on this merchandise. Petitioners have not filed for relief from imports of the subject merchandise under sections 337 of the Act, section 301 of the Trade Act of 1974, or section 232 of the Trade Expansion Act of 1962.

E. Scope of the Investigation and a Detailed Description of the Subject Merchandise (19 C.F.R. § 351.202(b)(5))

1. Scope of Investigation

The physical characteristics of the covered products, which define the scope, are as follows:

> The merchandise subject to these investigations consists of wooden cabinets and vanities that are designed for permanent installation (including floor mounted, wall mounted, ceiling hung or by attachment of plumbing), and wooden components thereof. Wooden cabinets and vanities and wooden components are made substantially of wood products, including solid wood and engineered wood products (including those made from wood particles, fibers, or other wooden materials such as plywood, strand board, block board, particle board, or fiberboard), or bamboo. Wooden cabinets and vanities consist of a cabinet box (which typically includes a top, bottom, sides, back, base blockers, ends/end panels, stretcher rails, toe kicks, and/or shelves) and may or may not include a frame, door, drawers and/or shelves. Subject merchandise includes wooden cabinets and vanities with or without wood veneers, wood, paper or other overlays, or laminates, with or without non-wood components or trim such as metal, marble, glass, plastic, or other resins, whether or not surface finished or unfinished, and whether or not assembled or completed.
> Wooden cabinets and vanities are covered by the investigation whether or not they are imported attached to, or in conjunction with, faucets, metal plumbing, sinks and/or sink bowls, or countertops. If wooden cabinets or vanities are imported attached to, or in conjunction with, such merchandise, only the wooden cabinet or vanity is covered by the scope.
> Subject merchandise includes the following wooden component parts of cabinets and vanities: (1) wooden cabinet and vanity frames (2) wooden cabinet and vanity boxes (which typically include a top, bottom, sides, back, base blockers, ends/end panels, stretcher rails, toe kicks, and/or shelves), (3) wooden cabinet or vanity doors, (4) wooden cabinet or vanity drawers and drawer components (which typically include sides, backs, bottoms, and faces), (5) back panels and end panels, (6) and desks, shelves, and tables that are attached to or incorporated in the subject merchandise.
> Subject merchandise includes all unassembled, assembled and/or "ready to assemble" (RTA) wooden cabinets and vanities, also commonly known as "flat packs," except to the extent such merchandise is already covered by the scope of antidumping and countervailing duty orders on Hardwood Plywood from the People's Republic of China. See Certain Hardwood Plywood Products from the People's Republic of China, 83 Fed. Reg. 504 (Dep't Commerce Jan. 4, 2018)

(amended final deter. of sales at less than fair value, & antidumping duty order); Certain Hardwood Plywood Products from the People's Republic of China, 83 Fed. Reg. 513 (Dep't Commerce Jan. 4, 2018) (countervailing duty order). RTA wooden cabinets and vanities are defined as cabinets or vanities packaged so that at the time of importation they may include: (1) wooden components required to assemble a cabinet or vanity (including drawer faces and doors); and (2) parts (e.g., screws, washers, dowels, nails, handles, knobs, adhesive glues) required to assemble a cabinet or vanity. RTAs may enter the United States in one or in multiple packages.

Subject merchandise also includes wooden cabinets and vanities and in-scope components that have been further processed in a third country, including but not limited to one or more of the following: trimming, cutting, notching, punching, drilling, painting, staining, finishing, assembly, or any other processing that would not otherwise remove the merchandise from the scope of the investigation if performed in the country of manufacture of the in-scope product.

Excluded from the scope of these investigations, if entered separate from a wooden cabinet or vanity are:

(1) Aftermarket accessory items which may be added to or installed into an interior of a cabinet and which are not considered a structural or core component of a wooden cabinet or vanity. Aftermarket accessory items may be made of wood, metal, plastic, composite material, or a combination thereof that can be inserted into a cabinet and which are utilized in the function of organization/accessibility on the interior of a cabinet; and include:
   - Inserts or dividers which are placed into drawer boxes with the purpose of organizing or dividing the internal portion of the drawer into multiple areas for the purpose of containing smaller items such as cutlery, utensils, bathroom essentials, etc.
   - Round or oblong inserts that rotate internally in a cabinet for the purpose of accessibility to foodstuffs, dishware, general supplies, etc.

(2) Carved wooden accessories including corbels and rosettes, which serve the primary purpose of decoration and personalization.

(3) Non-wooden cabinet hardware components including metal hinges, brackets, catches, locks, drawer slides, fasteners (nails, screws, tacks, staples), handles, and knobs.

Also excluded from the scope of these investigations are:

(1) All products covered by the scope of the antidumping duty order on Wooden Bedroom Furniture from the People's Republic of China (Inv. No. A-570-890). See Wooden Bedroom Furniture From the People's Republic of China, 70 Fed. Reg. 329 (Dep't Commerce Jan. 4, 2005) (notice of amended final deter. of sales at less than fair value & antidumping duty order).

(2) All products covered by the scope of the antidumping and countervailing duty orders on Hardwood Plywood from the People's Republic of China (Inv. No. A-570-051 and Inv. No. C-570-052). See Certain Hardwood Plywood Products from the People's Republic of China, 83 Fed. Reg. 504 (Dep't Commerce Jan. 4, 2018) (amended final deter. of sales at less than fair value, & antidumping duty order) (Certain Hardwood Plywood Products from the People's Republic of China, 83 Fed. Reg. 513 (Dep't Commerce Jan. 4, 2018) (countervailing duty order).

Imports of subject merchandise are classified under Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States (HTSUS) statistical numbers 9403.40.9060 and 9403.60.8081. The subject component parts of wooden cabinets and vanities may be entered into the United States under HTSUS statistical number 9403.90.7080. Although the HTSUS subheadings are provided for convenience and customs purposes, the written description of the scope of these investigations is dispositive.

2. Technical Characteristics and Uses

The merchandise subject to these investigations consists of wood-constructed products serving the purpose and function of permanently affixed cabinetry typically found throughout the home, including kitchen and bath cabinetry, modular vanities, pedestal vanities (which may or may not include a top composed of stone, plastic or other material), whether finished or unfinished, and wooden parts and components thereof. Wooden cabinets and vanities consist of wood products having physical characteristics applicable to the intended use for storage or display and are often found in a kitchen or other cooking area in the case of cabinets or in the bathroom in the case of vanities. However, wooden cabinets and vanities subject to these investigations also include those that are used in places other than in a home kitchen or bathroom (e.g., laundry room cabinets, closets, permanently affixed home office cabinets, kitchen and bathroom cabinetry found in commercial buildings, apartments, hotels, assisted living or healthcare facilities, or other environments).

Filed By: lel-sabaawi@wileyrein.com, Filed Date: 3/5/19 11:40 PM, Submission Status: Approved

Wooden cabinets and vanities are designed, manufactured, and offered for sale in various styles with the cabinets typically being designed of the same material and/or in the same finish, so that the various individual cabinets will be coordinated when installed in a kitchen or bathroom. Modular or built-in bathroom vanities include cabinets that are manufactured to incorporate one or more sinks, as well as bathroom vanity linen closets. Wooden cabinets and vanities represent different individual articles (e.g., kitchen cabinets, vertical pantries, bathroom vanities) with different configurations and sizes, all of which share the physical characteristics imparted by their common (but not sole) raw material – wood. Wooden cabinets and vanities are typically intended to be permanently installed (e.g., physically affixed to a wall, permanently hung from a ceiling, permanently attached to a floor, mated with plumbing fixtures rendering the item immobile) and are not designed to be moved.

Wooden cabinets and vanities are manufactured wholly or in part from wood products, including solid wood and engineered wood products (including those made from wood particles, fibers, or other wooden materials such as plywood, strand board, block board, particle board, or fiberboard), or bamboo. In addition to the wood components found in wooden cabinets and vanities, these products may contain certain quantities of non-wood material including glass, vinyl, plastics, metal drawer slides, metal door hinges, organizing racks, dividers, shelves, circular turntables (known as Lazy Susans), or other accessories, which are physically incorporated into cabinets and vanities. Wooden cabinets and vanities may be imported and sold in a natural finish state (i.e., the natural wood grain is visible and unobscured), stained, painted, coated with a urethane coating, covered with paper, vinyl material, phenolic film, or other obscuring coatings. The faces of a kitchen or other cabinet or vanity may be sanded, smoothed or given a "distressed" appearance through such methods as handscraping or wire brushing.

Filed By: lel-sabaawi@wileyrein.com, Filed Date: 3/5/19 11:40 PM, Submission Status: Approved

Wooden cabinets and vanities may be imported into the United States in a fully assembled form where the item is ready for installation or may be imported in a "flat pack" or "ready to assemble" ("RTA") form, which contains most or all of the items required by a person to undertake the process of assembling a cabinet or vanity into its fully assembled form. For an RTA to be subject to the scope, the parts for a single cabinet or vanity do not have to enter at the same time (i.e., do not have to enter on the same entry summary). In addition, as noted in the scope language, if an RTA manufactured in China is assembled into a completed cabinet or vanity in a third country, the cabinet or vanity remains subject to the scope of these investigations.

The scope includes the following component parts of wooden cabinets and vanities: (1) wooden cabinet and vanity frames (2) wooden cabinet and vanity boxes (which typically include a top, bottom, sides, back, base blockers, ends/end panels, stretcher rails, toe kicks, and shelves), (3) wooden cabinet or vanity doors, (4) wooden cabinet or vanity drawers and drawer components (which typically include sides, backs, bottoms, and faces), (5) back panels and end panels, (6) and desks, shelves, and tables that are attached to or incorporated in the subject merchandise.

The following diagrams – of a base cabinet and a wall cabinet – show several of these components, including the door, drawer front/face, toe kick, and stretcher rail:

The scope excludes carved wooden accessories including corbels and rosettes, which serve the primary purpose of decoration and personalization. A corbel is a projection, which may be made of material like wood, stone or metal, jutting out from a wall to support a structure above it. Examples of corbels are pictured below:

A rosette is a round carving that is often placed on fluted fillers and affixed to a completed piece of cabinetry. Examples of rosettes are pictured below:

3. Production Methodology

The manufacturing process for wooden cabinets and vanities is a lengthy process that requires a variety of inputs and is done in at least three phases.

First, the vast majority of a subject wooden cabinet or vanity is composed of sheets of natural or engineered wood products. The wood can be pure hardwood (representing a variety of wood species), a plywood made from hardwood or softwood or other wood products, or an engineered wooden product (hard board, particle board, etc.). The wood is then cut to shape utilizing a variety of wood cutting and forming machinery to form the outer faces, interior drawers, backings, cabinet frames, door frames, drawer faces, and any other component that, when assembled, constitutes a completed cabinet. This initial production phase is known as the "white wood phase." This is an intermediate production step.

Aside from the forming of wooden components into the proper size and shape, components may be drilled, notched, punched or otherwise processed, where required. For example, a door face may be drilled for the eventual inclusion of a door handle. A door may also be beveled to allow for a finger grip where the cabinet does not contain handles. Frames can be punched for hinges and screw holes for inlaid glass inserts.

In the second phase of production, white wood components are typically painted, stained, coated or overlaid with other components or coverings, yielding a finished component. The inputs here include primer, paints and stains, clear coat protective lacquers, enamels, glazing materials, vinyl or other plastic overlay materials. At this stage, mounting and assembly hardware and components (hinges, screws, dowels, "cams," slides, etc.) may be attached to the cabinet parts.

In the third phase of production, depending on the order and customer, the finished parts may be assembled into a finished cabinet that is then shipped to a customer, or the various parts may be arranged in a product package commonly known as a "flat pack" or RTA cabinet. Under the assembled cabinet method, the finished parts are joined together utilizing fastening hardware and tools, resulting in a fully manufactured and assembled cabinet. Items such as nails, screws, glues, resins, and some of the hardware identified in the second phase are utilized in the final assembly of a cabinet unit. The finished cabinet unit is then packed into a shipping carton (along with protective materials to prevent damage during shipping). Under the flat pack method, the various finished parts are carefully laid out and packaged in a large flat shipping case along with necessary hardware for assembly (screws, dowels, hinges (if not already installed), "cams," adhesive glues, slides, etc.), assembly tools (e.g., Allen keys and screwdrivers), instruction sheets, and packing materials. The flat pack boxes are then sealed and prepared for shipment to the customer or to an assembler in the United States. This has allowed numerous companies to expand quickly – both Chinese manufacturers with U.S. assembly operations, as well as an array of large and small U.S. assemblers who exist solely to assemble Chinese-manufactured flat packs and components.

4. Tariff Classification

Imports of subject merchandise are classified under Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States (HTSUS) statistical numbers 9403.40.9060 and 9403.60.8081. Major component parts of kitchen cabinets and bathroom vanities may be entered into the United States under HTSUS statistical number 9403.90.7080. The most-favored nation duty rate for imports under these HTS numbers is zero percent.

Excerpts from the current HTS are attached at Exhibit I-8. The tariff numbers are provided for the convenience of the U.S. government and do not define the scope of the petition. The written description of the merchandise under investigation is dispositive.

F. The Names of the Home Market Countries and the Name of Any Intermediate Country Through Which the Merchandise Is Transshipped (19 C.F.R. § 351.202(b)(6))

The wooden cabinets and vanities covered by these petitions are imported from the People's Republic of China. Petitioners do not have any evidence indicating that the subject merchandise is currently produced in a country other than that from which it is exported. However, Petitioners emphasize that subject merchandise also includes wooden cabinets and vanities and in-scope components that have been further processed in a third country, including but not limited to one or more of the following: trimming, cutting, notching, punching, drilling, painting, staining, finishing, assembly, or any other processing that would not otherwise remove the merchandise from the scope of the investigation if performed in the country of manufacture of the in-scope product.

G. The Names and Addresses of Each Person Believed to Sell the Merchandise at Less than Normal Value and the Proportion of Total Exports to the United States (19 C.F.R. § 351.202(b)(7)(i)(A))

The names and addresses of the Chinese entities believed by Petitioners to be producing and exporting the wooden cabinets and vanities subject to these petitions are provided in Exhibit I-9. In compiling this exhibit, Petitioners relied primarily upon information from foreign producer websites and information procured from [SOURCE], as well as Petitioners' industry knowledge.

Information reasonably available to Petitioners does not allow them to identify the proportion of total exports to the United States accounted for during the most recent 12-month period by the producers listed in this exhibit. Petitioners believe, however, that the companies listed in Exhibit I-9 account for the majority of subject imports.

II. DUMPED AND SUBSIDIZED CHINESE IMPORTS ARE A CAUSE OF MATERIAL INJURY AND THREAT THEREOF TO THE DOMESTIC CABINET AND VANITY INDUSTRY

A. Introduction

Imports of wooden cabinets and vanities from China have caused material injury to the domestic industry. Chinese cabinet imports have been steadily increasing for many years. During the period of investigation, imports from China reached their peak in 2018.[14] The rapid increase in subject imports in recent years is unsurprising given the size and scale of the Chinese wooden cabinets and vanities industry. Chinese producers are gaining more and more of a foothold in the U.S. market, including by opening their own warehouses and assembly operations in the United States. For example, in 2017, major Chinese producer Goldenhome opened huge warehouses in Los Angeles, California and Cranbury, New Jersey – both within the course of a week – because the United States is a "crucial country for the global strategic layout of Goldenhome."[15] Large Chinese companies like Panda Kitchen and Bath, as well as assemblers of Chinese-manufactured RTA cabinets and flat packs like Fabuwood and J&K Cabinetry, have expanded just as rapidly in the U.S. market and continue to grow today,[16] undercutting U.S. producers throughout the market.

These subject imports substantially undersold the domestic like product and, as a result, took [$116 MILLION] in lost sales and revenues from U.S. producers and depressed and suppressed

U.S. prices.[17] The effect of these imports on the profitability of the domestic cabinet and vanity industry has been extremely negative, as the industry has seen its profitability drop at a time when demand for cabinets and vanities is strong and increasing. In fact, the domestic industry's operating income fell by more than [$55 million] from 2016 to 2018,[18] while demand in the U.S. market grew steadily. At least two U.S. cabinet manufacturers have been forced out of business, and other major cabinet production facilities have had to shutter. These should be boom times for the domestic industry. Instead, as Chinese imports increase, the domestic industry's market share is decreasing, its employment is stagnating, and its performance is declining.

Given these factors, it is clear that the subject imports also threaten the domestic industry with material injury. Because its financial performance was adversely affected by the subject imports, the domestic cabinet and vanity industry is vulnerable to injury by imports. The increase in the volume of subject imports establishes the ability of the subject imports to enter the U.S. market rapidly and in large quantities. The Chinese industry has substantial excess capacity to expand production, and can easily shift exports from other countries to the United States. The trends in the statutory threat indicia – such as rising imports, falling prices, underselling, increasing market share and excess capacity – point directly to a continuation of the harm to an already injured industry.

B. The Domestic Like Product Consists of Wooden Cabinets and Vanities Covered by the Scope

In determining whether an industry in the United States is materially injured or threatened with material injury by reason of imports of the subject merchandise, the Commission first defines the domestic like product.[19] The "domestic like product" is defined as "a product which is like, or in the absence of like, most similar in characteristics and uses with, the article subject to an investigation…."[20] The like product determination is a factual one made on a case-by-case basis.[21] The Commission generally considers the following factors: (1) physical characteristics and uses; (2) interchangeability; (3) channels of distribution; (4) customer and producer perceptions of the products; (5) common manufacturing facilities, production processes and production employees; and, where appropriate, (6) price.[22] In evaluating these factors, the Commission looks for clear dividing lines and disregards minor variations.[23]

The Commission should define a single like product coextensive with the scope in this investigation. All in-scope wooden cabinets and vanities share the same general physical characteristics, including shape and materials. All wooden cabinets and vanities are constructed from wooden parts and components and are intended to be used as permanently affixed cabinetry. In addition, wooden cabinets and vanities produced to the same dimensions are generally interchangeable. All wooden cabinets and vanities are sold through the same or similar channels of distribution – (1) designer/dealers; (2) retail, including home centers (e.g., Home Depot); or (3) direct to end users (including builders and homeowners). Wooden cabinets and vanities are also manufactured in common facilities, using similar production processes and the same production employees.

The Commission should accordingly determine that wooden cabinets and vanities represent a single domestic like product, coextensive with the scope identified above.

C. There Is a Single Domestic Industry Consisting of All Domestic Producers

Section 771(7)(4) of the Act defines the domestic industry as the domestic "producers as a whole of a domestic like product, or those producers whose collective output of a domestic like product constitutes a major proportion of the total domestic production of the product."[24] The Commission should find that there is a single domestic industry manufacturing wooden cabinets and vanities in the United States.

Petitioners submit that companies that merely assemble Chinese flat packs/RTAs or Chinese cabinet or vanity parts in the United States are not producing wooden cabinets and vanities in the United States, and these companies should not be included in the domestic industry. In many other investigations, the Commission has found that companies with mere assembly operations should not be included in the domestic industry.[25]

D. Subject Imports Are Causing Material Injury to the Domestic Industry

In determining whether a domestic industry is experiencing present material injury caused by unfairly traded imports, the Commission considers:

(1) the volume of imports of the subject merchandise;

(2) the effect of imports of that merchandise on prices in the United States for domestic like products; and

(3) the impact of imports of such merchandise on domestic producers of domestic like products.[26]

[26] 19 U.S.C. § 1677(7)(B).

An analysis of these factors shows that the domestic wooden cabinets and vanities industry is suffering material injury by reason of subject imports.

1. The Volume of Subject Imports Is Significant

In evaluating the volume of imports, the Commission considers whether the absolute and relative volumes of imports, as well as changes in volumes, are significant.[27] The available data plainly show that the volume of subject imports, both in absolute terms and relative to U.S. consumption, is significant within the meaning of the relevant statutory provision.

a. The Volume of Subject Imports Is Significant in Absolute Terms

The volume of subject imports was significant in absolute terms during the POI. The following table shows imports of wooden cabinets and vanities and covered components from China for 2016, 2017 and January-November 2018 (as well as January-November 2016 and January-November 2017, for comparison purposes).[28] Import data is only available by value.

As the table shows, imports of wooden cabinets and vanities from China increased by 10.7 percent from 2016 to 2017. From January-November 2016 to January-November 2018, subject imports increased by 19.9 percent. By way of comparison, Petitioners' total shipments of wooden cabinets and vanities between 2016 and 2018 [ ].[29]

An analysis of the single HTS subheading most specific to subject merchandise – 9403.40.9060, for kitchen cabinets – shows even greater growth. From 2016 to 2017, imports from China under this HTS number increased by 21.4 percent.[30] From January-November 2017 to January-November 2018, imports from China under this HTS number increased by another 19.3 percent.[31]

b. Subject Imports Increased Their Market Share During the Period

The volume of subject imports is also significant in relative terms. Petitioners do not reasonably have access to information to calculate apparent domestic consumption and thus exact market shares over the entire POI. However, a comparison of subject imports (under the most specific HTS subheading) to the U.S. Producers' Group shipments[32] demonstrates the growing market penetration of Chinese imports. This is demonstrated in the table below:

Nonsubject Imports as % Share of Total	[ ]%	[ ]%	[ ]%

*Because official U.S. import statistics are currently available only for January-November 2018, in order to approximate imports in full year 2018, Petitioners conservatively assumed that December 2018 imports were the same as December 2017 imports.

As shown in the table below, while the group of U.S. producers' shipments as a percentage of this portion of the market fell by [5] percentage points, Chinese imports as a percentage of this portion of the market grew by [ ] percentage points. Subject imports were the primary cause of the decline in the domestic industry's market share, as the market share of non-subject imports rose only very modestly over this period. This data demonstrate that Chinese imports are taking substantial market share directly from U.S. producers.

Petitioners believe that the market share data based on volume/quantity will show an even greater shift of market share from the domestic like product to subject imports. Due to substantial Chinese underselling and other factors, Chinese market share as measured by value is understated. Petitioners request that the Commission collect this key data by volume in the investigation, and calculate market share in its investigation report based on volume, rather than value.

The growth of Chinese import market share is also demonstrated through independent reports, such as a [NARRATIVE].[33]

Accordingly, during the POI, subject imports were significant in absolute terms and relative to domestic production.

2. The Subject Imports Have Had Negative Price Effects on the Domestic Like Product

In evaluating the effect of subject imports on prices, the Commission must consider whether there has been significant underselling by the subject imports, and whether imports significantly suppressed or depressed domestic prices.[34] Chinese imports undersold the domestic like product throughout the POI. The dumped and subsidized prices of Chinese imports also suppressed prices by preventing the domestic producers from raising prices in response to growing demand for wooden cabinets and vanities. On this basis, the Commission should determine that Chinese imports had significant negative price effects on the domestic like product.

Chinese imports compete directly with the domestic like product, as dumped and subsidized Chinese imports have relentlessly expanded across the product spectrum and are of a quality comparable to domestic product. Being comparable in all other major respects, Chinese imports and the domestic like product compete on the basis of price, and Chinese producers are using unfairly traded prices to take market share from domestic producers.

Indeed, subject imports pervasively undersold the domestic like product during the POI. While AUV data cannot be derived from import data, which is only collected by value, Petitioners have compiled pricing comparisons showing Chinese pricing versus a variety of large domestic producers' pricing for a number of major cabinet and vanity products, and this data demonstrates the substantially lower pricing of Chinese products.[35] For example, Chinese

These and the many other examples included in Exhibit I-17 demonstrate that Chinese underselling in the wooden cabinet and vanity market is pervasive.[39] U.S. producers also cited many examples of sales lost to Chinese imports that were priced [ ] than the domestic like product.[40] [NARRATIVE]."[41]

The Commission will need to collect detailed information regarding domestic and Chinese products to assess the extent of underselling in this investigation. Petitioners recommend that the Commission collect data on the following pricing products:

Subject imports have also had price-depressing and -suppressing effects on the domestic like product. For example, in a period of strong and growing demand from 2016 to 2018,[42] U.S. producers' unit cost of goods sold ("COGS") increased further than did their net sales average unit values ("AUVs").[43] Similarly, the COGS to net sales ratio increased from [ ] percent to [ ] percent over the period,[44] as U.S. producers were forced to limit their prices in order to compete with unfairly traded Chinese wooden cabinets and vanities.

Further evidence of the negative price effects of the subject imports appears in the reports of lost sales and lost revenues. Petitioners have identified lost sales and revenues with an estimated total value of nearly [$116 million].[45] These lost sales and revenues establish that imports of Chinese wooden cabinets and vanities are competing directly with the domestic like product, so that unfairly low AUVs for Chinese imports have a direct effect on domestic prices and sales.

3. The Adverse Impact of Subject Imports on the Domestic Industry Is Significant

In examining the impact of subject imports on the domestic industry, the Commission is instructed to "evaluate all relevant economic factors which have a bearing on the state of the industry in the United States."[46] These factors include, but are not limited to:

(I) actual and potential decline in output, sales, market share, profits, productivity, return on investments, and utilization of capacity;

(II) factors affecting domestic prices;

(III) actual and potential negative effects on cash flow, inventories, employment, wages, growth, ability to raise capital, and investment;

(IV) actual and potential negative effects on the existing development and production efforts of the domestic industry, including efforts to develop a derivative or more advanced version of the domestic like product; and

(V) the magnitude of the margin of dumping.[47]

The Commission is directed to evaluate all factors "within the context of the business cycle and conditions of competition that are distinctive to the affected industry."[48] A review of these factors shows substantial indicators of injury to the domestic industry by reason of the subject imports in this investigation.

a. During a Period of Growing Demand, Subject Imports Adversely Affected the Domestic Industry's Financial Performance

Subject imports had a negative impact on the financial condition of the domestic industry, with the industry's financial indicators declining across the POI. Notably, from 2016 to 2018, U.S. producers' operating income margin dropped by [ ], with overall operating income falling by more than [$55 million].[49] During the same period, U.S. producers' net income margin dropped by nearly [ ], with overall net income falling by nearly [ ].[50]

This decline in financial performance occurred while U.S. demand was strong and growing. One major demand driver for wooden cabinets and vanities is new residential construction, which can be measured using housing starts data from the U.S. Census Bureau ("Census"). This data show that the number of housing units completed in the United States increased by 12.5 percent from 2016 to 2018.[51] Census also regularly measures monthly sales for retail services by kind of business, including a category for building materials and supplies dealers, which is understood in the industry to be a measure of demand in the replace and remodel ("R&R") segment of the wooden cabinets and vanities market.[52] By this measure, demand in the R&R segment of the industry also increased by 11.7 percent from 2016 to 2018.[53] Despite this very strong growth, as a result of unfair subject import competition, domestic cabinet and vanity manufacturers' financial performance is declining.

In fact, subject imports are even driving U.S. cabinet manufacturers out of business. Early this year, Missouri company Woodpro Cabinetry announced that it was forced to shutter its facility after more than 40 years in business manufacturing wooden cabinets and vanities.[54] Custom Wood Products, LLC, a Roanoke, Virginia-based cabinet manufacturer, also declared bankruptcy in January.[55] One of the largest U.S. producers of wooden cabinets and vanities, Masco Corporation, recently announced its intention to "explore strategic alternatives" to its $1.1 billion cabinetry business, indicating that it may soon be forced to exit this industry in the United States as well.[56]

Along with deteriorating financial results and even bankruptcies, employment also remained stagnant over this period of strong and growing demand, with growth of [

In June 2018, 445 American workers lost their jobs when MasterBrand Cabinets, Inc. was forced to close its Auburn, Alabama facility.[58] MasterBrand applied and was certified for Trade Adjustment Assistance for these job losses, as a result of increased imports of wooden cabinets and vanities.[59] MasterBrand was also forced to close a

b. Domestic Industry Production and Trade Indicators Demonstrate the Injury Caused by Subject Imports in 2018

In addition to declining financial results, as Chinese imports continued to surge into the United States in 2018, other domestic industry indicators began to deteriorate. From 2017 to 2018, U.S. production fell, capacity utilization dropped by more than [ ], commercial shipment and net sales quantities decreased, and nearly [550] production-related workers lost their jobs.[61] The continued influx of unfairly traded subject imports thus continued to cause material injury to the domestic industry last year, leaving the domestic industry in a severely weakened state.

d. The Estimated Dumping Margins Are Very High

Petitioners estimates dumping margin for the subject merchandise ranging from 175.50% to 259.99%, with an average margin of 216.04%.[65] Being forced to compete with imports dumped at this magnitude clearly have a negative effect on the domestic industry's financial situation and overall health.

E. Conclusion

All of the indicators of material injury are present in this case. The volume of subject imports was significant both absolutely and relative to U.S. production, and increased over the POI. These subject imports undersold the domestic like product substantially and systematically, and they depressed and suppressed U.S. producer prices over the period. As a result, despite strong and growing demand for wooden cabinets and vanities in the United States from 2016 to 2018, U.S. producers' financial performance deteriorated significantly, domestic industry employment stagnated, and domestic producers lost nearly [$116 MILLION] in sales and revenues to subject imports.[66] Subject imports prevented the domestic industry from reaping any of the benefits of strong and growing U.S. demand and left the U.S. hardwood plywood industry in a weakened, injured state.

Therefore, the volume, price effects and impact of subject imports on the U.S. wooden cabinet and vanity industry have been both significant and harmful. The Commission should find that subject imports have caused material injury to the domestic industry.

F. Subject Imports Threaten Material Injury to the Domestic Industry

The above discussion establishes that the subject imports have caused material injury to the domestic wooden cabinet and vanity industry. In addition, the evidence available to Petitioners also demonstrates that subject imports threaten the domestic industry with further material injury.

In determining whether subject imports threaten a domestic industry with material injury, the Commission must consider a number of factors. These factors include

- A significant rate of increase of the volume or market penetration of imports of the subject merchandise;
- Price effects of the subject imports;
- The nature of any countervailable subsidies;
- Existing unused production capacity or potential increases in production capacity in the exporting country;
- Inventories of the subject merchandise; and
- The potential for product-shifting.[67]

These factors are present in this case and will be demonstrated throughout the investigation:

Increase in imports: From January-November 2016 to January-November 2018, subject imports increased by 19.9 percent,[68] taking substantial market share from the domestic industry.[69] Thus, the increase in Chinese import volume and the increase in Chinese imports' market share are both significant. The surge of Chinese imports also affected the profitability of the domestic industry, causing it to decline even during a period of growing demand, rendering U.S. producers vulnerable to injury should Chinese imports continue to enter the United States at current or increasing rates.

Without relief, Chinese wooden cabinet and vanity imports will continue to increase in the foreseeable future. As [SOURCE

]."[70]

Price effects: The Act provides that, in determining whether the domestic industry is threatened with material injury, the Commission should consider "whether imports of the subject merchandise are entering at prices that are likely to have a significant depressing or suppressing effect on domestic prices, and are likely to increase demand for further imports."[71] Subject imports had such effects during the POI and, in the absence of relief, will continue to have such effects in the near future.

Subject imports pervasively undersold the domestic like product during the POI, as shown by actual pricing comparisons data provided by numerous domestic producers and independent reports.[72] As a result of this underselling, domestic producers were unable to raise prices in accordance with growing demand, and U.S. producers' unit cost of goods sold ("COGS") increased further than did their net sales average unit values ("AUVs").[73] The price effects of the Chinese imports are also demonstrated by the extensive lost sales reported by the domestic industry.

Nature of the subsidies: As part of its threat analysis, the Commission must consider "if a countervailable subsidy is involved" and, in particular, "whether the countervailable subsidy is a subsidy described in Article 3 or 6.1" of the WTO Agreement on Subsidies and Countervailing Measures.[74] Article 3 of the WTO Subsidies Agreement describes subsidies that are prohibited because they are contingent upon export performance or upon the use of domestic over imported goods.[75]

The nature of the countervailable subsidies received by the Chinese hardwood industry encourages both the expansion of capacity and the export of wooden cabinets and vanities to the United States. Examples of the subsidies that benefit wooden cabinet and vanity producers in China include:

- The provision of inputs at less than adequate remuneration, including timber and veneers;
- Policy loans at preferential rates provided to wooden cabinet and vanity producers by Chinese government authorities, as industries favored by the government;
- Grants provided to wooden cabinet and vanity producers to assist in the development of export markets or to recognize export performance;

- Preferential land use rights that are granted to promote exports to enterprises and industries located in China's industrial zones; and

- Income tax credits for domestically owned companies, which are contingent upon the use of domestically produced rather than imported equipment.

Excess capacity and inventories: With respect to capacity in China, and inventories held in China and by U.S. importers, Petitioners do not have access to data.

Petitioners believe that the level of excess wooden cabinet and vanity capacity in China has likely risen in recent years. The wooden cabinet and vanity industry is one with relatively low barriers to entry and expansion. While wooden cabinet and vanity manufacturing can be high-tech, it can also be performed using quite primitive equipment; some processes can even be performed manually. There are no intrinsic factors limiting the expansion of current Chinese capacity. Moreover, with huge numbers of unoccupied homes in China – now more than 50 million empty homes[76] – new housing construction in China is likely to decline,[77] leading to a drop in domestic demand for Chinese kitchen and vanities and an increase in subject merchandise that needs to be offloaded through export.

These factors indicate that, going forward, subject imports will continue to inflict material injury on the domestic wooden cabinet and vanity industry, in the absence of relief. As Fortune Brands, parent company to large U.S. producer MasterBrand Cabinets, Inc., stated in its recent Annual Report: "We also face increasing pressure from imported 'flat pack' cabinets. The strong competition that we face in all of our businesses may adversely affect our profitability and revenue levels, as well as our results of operations, cash flows and financial condition."[78]

In addition, housing construction, measured by growth in the floor space of buildings under construction, has dropped from a double-digit pace to a pace close to zero, while growth in the floor space of completed buildings has turned negative").

III. CONCLUSION

All statutory factors support a finding that imports of wooden cabinets and vanities from China have caused material injury to the domestic industry, and that such imports threaten additional material injury. Thus, the Commission should make an affirmative determination with respect to subject imports.

11. We then subtracted U.S. imports of wooden cabinets and vanities to reach a figure for U.S. producers' shipments. As a conservative measure, we used only the figure for cabinets and vanities imported under HTS number 9403.40.9060 for kitchen cabinets, although certain in-scope merchandise is imported under other HTS numbers, including HTS number 9403.90.7080 for components. U.S. imports in 2017 under HTS number 9403.40.9060 totaled $1,522,545,853. Because this figure represents the value of the imports upon entry rather than upon sale, we adjusted the value to include a 30 percent margin – the average contribution margin in the industry for both imports and U.S. product. This results in a value for U.S. import shipments of $2,175,065,504.

Origins

In 1998, the Huang family purchased their first home in the U.S. and decided to visit one of the local remodeling companies to purchase a new Kitchen. After finding that their remodeling plans were out of reach, they decided to use their decades of experience in the construction industry to find a way to make the buying of a new Kitchen more affordable.

By teaming up with the manufacturer directly, they found a way to save on project costs by up to 70% and, therefore, the family found a way to pass on those savings to the local consumer.

After two years of preparation Panda Kitchen and Bath Expo Center was born.
